

Lucerne, Switzerland, September 21 2016

RMI Analytics AG publishes the latest edition of its Brewing Raw Material Journal.

On September 20 RMI Analytics AG published the latest bi-weekly edition of the industry acclaimed Brewing Raw Material Journal (BRMJ).

In the BRMJ RMI Analytics reported:

EU barley markets drop over the last two weeks.

French market activity quiet with grains at a significant premium to UK or Danish origin.

Strong premiums for malting barley over feed should lead to more malting barley coming out of Denmark.

Canadian farmers continue to struggle against continued rains while prices creep up.

Black Sea origin dominating feed barley exports into the Middle East.

Changes off the agenda in Australia's grain market while Vietnamese brewers go private.

Address:

Museggstrasse, 8
CH-6004 Lucerne,
Switzerland

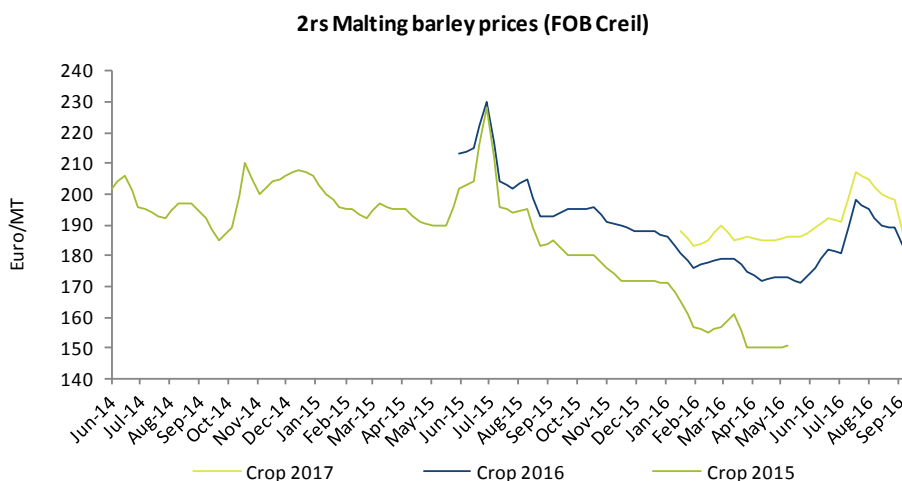

info@rmi-analytics.com

www.rmi-analytics.com

FAX: +41 41 379 7741

TEL: +41 79 613 3217

21.09.2016

Notes to editors

RMI Analytics AG is a Swiss limited liability company which provides market insights, creates networking platforms and offers advisory services for the barley, malt and beer industry. RMI Analytics aims to help its customers making better decision and to be recognized as the adviser of choice for brewing raw materials.

For more information concerning the detailed Journal please contact

info@RMI-Analytics.com