

Lucerne, Switzerland, November 1 2016

RMI Analytics AG publishes the latest edition of its Brewing Raw Material Journal.

On November 1 RMI Analytics AG published the latest bi-weekly edition of the industry acclaimed Brewing Raw Material Journal (BRMJ).

In the BRMJ RMI Analytics reported:

EU barley markets see prices rise on the back of wheat market rises.

Trade across the EU is blocked with the UK the only country where major export activity is happening.

In Danish and Swedish farmers are sitting on grain waiting for higher prices.

Australian crops are delayed but look excellent on the east coast as the west coast starts its harvest.

Canadian crops languish in the field as rain stops the last bits of the barley harvest.

SAB/AB-InBev merger is finalized and Krin moves into the USA craft beer market.

Notes to editors

RMI Analytics AG is a Swiss limited liability company which provides market insights, creates networking platforms and offers advisory services for the barley, malt and beer industry. RMI Analytics aims to help its customers making better decision and to be recognized as the adviser of choice for brewing raw materials.

For more information concerning the detailed Journal please contact

info@RMI-Analytics.com

Address:

Museggstrasse, 8
CH-6004 Lucerne,
Switzerland

info@rmi-analytics.com

www.rmi-analytics.com

FAX: +41 41 379 7741

TEL: +41 79 613 3217

01.11.2016